

Product Categories

Description

The Product Categories application is used to group products into families or collections for easier classification. Categories are helpful for filtering, reporting, organizing catalogs, and applying common business rules.

Typical categories might include "Hardware", "Software", "Services", or "Accessories".

The form includes the following fields:

- Name: Label of the category as shown in the product form.
- Description: Optional clarification or notes about this category.
- Active: Enables or disables the category for selection.

Delete

Categories can only be deleted if they are not assigned to any product.

When in use, they should be disabled instead.
